About Lakeland, Florida

Lakeland, Florida is Polk County’s largest city and its commercial center, anchoring the Tampa-Orlando corridor along Interstate 4 in a county that has grown to more than 870,000 residents. This sustained in-migration, combined with an expanding consumer base, drives steady demand for essential service retail, automotive services, and necessity-based tenants along established commercial corridors like US Highway 98.

Lakeland is the global headquarters of Publix Super Markets, which employs more than 16,500 people in Polk County and is the county’s largest employer by a wide margin. The local economy is further anchored by Lakeland Regional Health, the Polk County School Board, GEICO’s regional operations, Saddle Creek Logistics’ corporate headquarters, and the Amazon Air cargo hub at Lakeland Linder International Airport, a $100 million facility that opened in 2020 and made Lakeland one of Amazon’s principal air freight nodes in the Southeast.

Direct connectivity via US Highway 98, Interstate 4, and the Polk Parkway places Lakeland roughly 35 miles east of Tampa and 55 miles west of Orlando, making it a compelling alternative to coastal Florida markets for investors targeting demographic tailwinds and durable cash flow at a more accessible entry point.
